

Instructions for Elasticity Memo Draft

- Memo is due to google folder Tuesday October 24 by beginning of class
- Your charge is to provide sufficient information so that a classmate can provide reasonable comments. It is hard to imagine that you reach this bar without some calculation and some description of your calculation.
- I have emailed a link to a google folder for submission to your GW email
- You are assigned to a group of 3; see list on reverse. Let me know ASAP if I have missed you.
- How to post
  - Post draft to either evening or afternoon folder, papers subfolder
  - Make document name this format: groupX_lastname.pdf (or .docx, or whatever)
  - This way your group can find your documents
  - Due Tuesday October 24 before class
  - Grade declines by one letter for each 12 hours of tardiness
- How to comment
  - Post comments to either evening or afternoon folder, comments subfolder
  - Make document name this format: groupX_lastname_for_lastnameauthor.pdf (or .docx, or whatever). “lastnameauthor” is the last name of the author on whose paper you are commenting
  - Comments are useful when they are not entirely complimentary; think about how your classmate can improve his or her work.
  - We are particularly interested in these features
    - * does the paper identify a supply or demand shift due to policy?
    - * does the paper identify an appropriate elasticity from the literature?
    - * does the paper perform or outline reasonable calculations based on these first two answers?
  - I anticipate comments more than a paragraph but less than a page
  - Due Sunday October 29 by midnight
  - Grade declines by one letter for each 12 hours of tardiness
